Williamsburg murder, suicide

A man suspected of killing his girlfriend in his Williamsburg apartment Tuesday night jumped to his death off the roof, police said. After a 911 call, cops found the 29-year-old woman unconscious and bleeding in the bathtub of the apartment on Roebling Street just after 10 p.m. Efram Gabourel, 26, ran up to the building's roof and police watched him jump to his death. METRO/CB

Skyrocketing rents hit a decade high

► Manhattan rents now highest since 2002, new study finds ► Some New York die-hards choose to stay on the island ► How high will rents go? Up and up, say brokers, as long as there's people willing to pay them

It's not just your landlord. If rents always seem to be creeping up, it's because they are: Last month, Manhattan rents hit their highest price of the past 10 years, according to a new report out today.

Citi Habitats issued the report, revealing that the average Manhattan apartment rented for $3,418 in March, setting a record since the real estate brokerage firm began tracking rents a decade ago.

This tops the previous top rent of $3,394, set in May 2007.

Skyrocketing rents are making some New Yorkers rethink what it's worth to live on the island of Manhattan.

After the rent at Russell Lewis' studio shot up $300 this spring, he and his girlfriend started shopping for a new place to live. But all they found were a host of other rental studios priced even steeper.

"The scariest part was just seeing how high some of the rents have gone," Lewis, 29, an internal consultant at a bank, told Metro.

Like so many before, the high rents may push them into Brooklyn. They're now looking at one-bedrooms to buy in Carroll Gardens or Williamsburg.

Kelly Killian, a broker with Bond New York, said her clients are cringing at Upper East Side rents that she says are 5 percent higher than last year.

So far, she said, they "are still trying to stick it out," adding, "The renters haven't jumped ship, the die-hard Manhattanites."

Others agree that the allure of Manhattan — and the ability to write expensive rent checks — has not ebbed, said Yuval Greenblatt, executive vice president at Prudential Douglas Elliman, which also released a report today showing rising rents.

Who's renting these apartment? New York University and Columbia students are filling some of them, he said.

"The people who are coming to Manhattan all are able to afford it ... If you're studying at NYU or Columbia, you can afford the rent," Greenblatt said. "Most of these people have the income to support that kind of rent, otherwise they wouldn't come here."

Killian added that her clients are often tech-industry successes.

"Prices are going up regardless, because there's still enough demand to fill in those units," Greenblatt said.

$1,292 Harlem
$1,619 Morningside Heights

► It's now more expensive than ever to call Manhattan home.

High rents turn tenants into owners

Rents are so high, some New Yorkers are opting to buy. Florence Ng at Citi Habitats said her clients are opting to pour money into a mortgage instead of a rent check.

"You have this pool of renters who, like my buyers, have decided that they just don't want to pay high rents anymore," she said.

► Chan

Lawrence Chan, 30, a co-owner of the popular Manchester Pub sports bar in Midtown East, said that he anticipates his Herald Square rent will rise by $200, and now wants to buy instead.

"It's quite a bit of money, for a place that I don't really have an emotional attachment to," Chan told Metro yesterday.

Lawyer of teenager charged in mom's death blames meds

BILLY BECERRA/METRO

► Police say Henry Wachtel killed his mother inside the apartment the two shared at this building on the corner of West 55th Street and Eighth Avenue.

The lawyer for a 19-year-old man who is accused of beating his mother to death is blaming the gruesome event on his client's epilepsy medication.

"It's a very tragic incident," defense attorney Lloyd Epstein said yesterday. "Everyone knows that Henry is an epileptic, and that sometimes with medications unexpected things happen."

Police announced late Tuesday night that Henry Wachtel was charged with murdering his mother, Karyn Kay.

Epstein declined to say what type of medication or how much Wachtel was taking. But a police source told the New York Daily News Wachtel was taking Keppra and Lamictal, two epilepsy medications that can cause aggression.

Kay, a popular teacher at the elite LaGuardia High School, was found beaten to death at her Midtown apartment Tuesday morning.

After getting a 911 call at about 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, police said they raced to the West 55th Street apartment to find Kay, 63, lying on the ground with severe head trauma.

Her skull was fractured, as was one of her eye sockets, and she had broken ribs, according to reports. She was taken to Cornell Hospital, but could not be saved, said police.

Kay and her son lived together, and neighbors said the son suffered from an illness.

It was Kay who made the frantic 911 call.

She screamed at the operator that her son was beating her while having a seizure, according to reports.

"Help, Help! He's attacking me!" is what Kay reportedly screamed.

Neighbors told the Daily News they heard shouting coming from inside the 10th-floor apartment Tuesday morning.

"He was screaming, 'I'm sorry, mommy!' over and over and over," a neighbor told the News.

When police brought him out, he was covered in blood. Wachtel, a martial arts enthusiast, is accused of beating his mother to death with nothing but his bare hands.

"He kept apologizing to his mother the whole time — he kept saying, 'I didn't mean it,'" another neighbor told the News. Wachtel was taken for a psych exam yesterday at Bellevue Hospital.

Who was Karyn Kay?

Kay is remembered by her students as a beloved educator and caring mother. She taught English at LaGuardia High School by Lincoln Center and was also a visiting professor at Pratt Institute in Brooklyn.

Kay was a writer and a filmmaker, as well. She wrote the screenplay for

"Call Me," a 1988 film that starred Steve Buscemi. She is also remembered as a devoted mother who deeply loved her son.

Wachtel is a student at Fordham University, where his father is a professor. Neighbors said they often heard shouting and fighting coming from the apartment the two shared, and that Kay had said her son was having anger issues lately. METRO/AB

Cops: Loaded gun on subway

SOHO. A man caught evading the subway fare Tuesday was arrested for bringing a loaded gun onto a C train, police said.

Rahmeek Younger, 22, was arrested after police said they saw him run onto a Brooklyn-bound C train at the Spring Street station, after police heard the alarm of an emergency exit gate opening.

Younger acted nervously, police said, and kept adjusting his jacket while keeping his hand inside his pocket.

When the train stopped at Canal Street, cops tried to get him off, but he began fighting with them, police said. The cops subdued him and, after a search, police found Younger was allegedly carrying a fully loaded .38 caliber Taurus revolver under his jacket. ● METRO/CB

Eco-friendly cars tour New York City to mark Earth Day

Usually, when a fleet of cars cruise through Manhattan, their exhaust fumes only add to the city's pollution.

But this time, in a drive planned to celebrate Earth Day, a fleet of earth-friendly cars will do the exact opposite.

As part of Earth Day New York, a collection of eco-friendly vehicles will drive around Midtown next Friday, on April 20, raising awareness of green automobile options. Cars that will be part of the "CO2 E Drive" include the electric hybrid Toyota Prius and Nissan LEAF.

The event is hosted by the Danish Cultural Institute and Danish artist Jacob Fuglsang Mikkelsen.

"The intent of the CO2 E Drive is to create climate awareness with sustainable solutions and to attempt to heal

"The intent of the CO2 E Drive is to ... attempt to heal Mother Earth with the help of art on a global scale."

MIKKELSEN

Mother Earth with the help of art on a global scale," Mikkelsen said.

The cars will be equipped with Bridgestone's Ecopia tires, which are eco-friendly. The company promises the tires improve fuel efficiency and provide a quiet ride by using tire technology with little resistance. Also on April 20, New Yorkers can peruse eco-friendly rides at Times Square, where the cars will take part in an auto runway show. ● METRO

The car, the artist?

NEW YORK. As part of Mikkelsen's vision, the vehicles will create art, driving in the shape of the letter "E" through the streets of Midtown.

All of the vehicles involved will be equipped with GPS technology and will drive a predesignated route, he said.

The image of the "E" will be captured by GPS technology and will be shown in the form of lights via a satellite feed.

The letter "E" represents Earth Day New York's attempt to get New Yorkers to be more environmentally conscious. ● METRO

Zimmerman is arrested, charged in Martin death

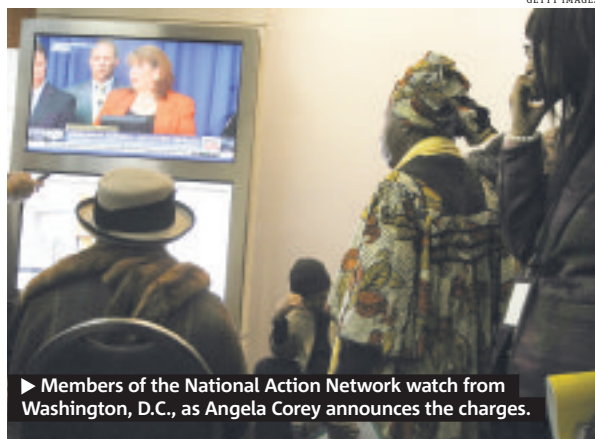

A special prosecutor in Florida charged neighborhood watch volunteer George Zimmerman with second-degree murder yesterday in the shooting death of unarmed black teenager Trayvon Martin — a move that protesters had been demanding for weeks in the racially charged case.

Zimmerman was under arrest at an undisclosed location in Florida, officials said.

Special prosecutor Angela Corey's decision came 45 days after the fatal shooting in a quiet gated community in the central Florida town of Sanford.

Police had declined to arrest Zimmerman, who is white and Hispanic, based on his account of self-defense, setting off civil rights demonstrations around the country.

"I can tell you we did not come to this decision lightly," Corey told a news conference in Jacksonville.

"Let me emphasize that we do not prosecute by public pressure or by petition. We prosecute based on the facts of any given case as well as the laws of the state of Florida."

Apple accused of price fixing

Apple Inc. and publishers Penguin and Macmillan have decided to fight U.S. government charges that they conspired to fix the prices of e-books, even as three other publishers agreed to a settlement aimed at lowering prices for consumers.

The Justice Department accused Apple of colluding with the five publishers, as the Silicon Valley giant was launching its iPad in early 2010 and was seeking to break up Amazon's low-cost dominance in the digital book market.

The settlement reached with three of the publishers will allow Amazon.com Inc. and Barnes & Noble Inc. to resume discounting books, and will terminate the "most favored nation" contracts with Apple. REUTERS

Manson again denied parole by California

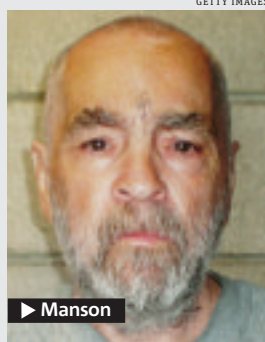

Mass murderer Charles Manson, one of America's most notorious convicts, was denied parole yesterday in his 12th and possibly final bid for release from a California prison, state corrections officials said.

Manson, 77, who has skipped attendance of his parole hearings in recent years, was not present for yesterday's review of his case by the state Board of Parole Hearings at Corcoran State Prison, where he is serving a life term.

The state Corrections and Rehabilitation Department said Manson would next be eligible for parole in 15 years, when he would be about 92 years old.

Bust out the noise-makers, America, because we did it! Against all odds, under an ineffective executive and a deadlocked legislature, we've somehow managed to completely snuff out the troublesome U.S. deficit. Our long national nightmare is over!

Oh, you didn't hear this? You may actually have but just don't fully realize it. That's partly because the issue is quite wonkish and difficult to succinctly explain, and partly because of the pervasive journalistic problem of false equivalency. We're going to do our best to break down these issues.

This Tuesday, a report by Republican politician Charles Blahous made the rounds, inspiring another round of spin. The media response was unsurprising; even we ran an article yesterday asking, "Obamacare could worsen US debt?"

Blahous had rechecked the costs of health care reform and found them to be off by some $340 billion. To do this, however, he had to break from the traditional methods both parties use to score all legislation.

It all comes down to trust funds, and here's where things get hairy. Medicare funds, like those of other entitlement programs, are distributed via trust fund. This system, generally disliked by conservatives, applies a sort of guaranteed security to these programs, making it difficult for politicians to cut them.

SCOTT J. FERRELL/GETTY IMAGES

► "Hello, world? Yeah, it's me, Charles Blahous. Can we change objective reality as we know it? Cool, thanks."

When these trust funds run out politicians simply refill them, because entitlement programs are very popular with voters. These funds are, after all, paid by government bonds. This is why the Congressional Budget Office estimate of the law's costs assumed that Medicare payments would continue even after the fund empties.

Blahous takes issue with this established method and so pretends it doesn't exist. But it does, of course, and will most likely continue to do so.

Turns out an interesting thing happens when you ignore our arcane budget realities: The real problems disappear. Using the Blahous logic, we needn't worry about rising entitlement costs at all; these programs will, you see, stop paying out as soon as their funds empty. Problem solved!

If only. "If we did things that way," says Medicare expert Paul Van de Water, "a lot of stuff would look different." But we don't, and it doesn't.

Do you follow? If so, congratulations. The finer points of budget law are too difficult for most journalists — let alone the average consumer — to understand. Which brings us to the problem of equivalency. Since issues like these can be too nuanced for laymen to fully grasp (we spent six hours researching and still feel out of depth), many reporters revert to "he said this, she said that" rather than qualifying the factual accuracy of individual claims. This allows journalists to ignore the small matter of whether their sources are lying.

In more ways than one, Blahous teaches us what we gain from ignoring reality.

Death and taxes collide as fatal crashes mount

ZONAR

► Must have been tax day.

Death and taxes aren't only certain, they also seem to share a same deadline in the U.S., according to a study that points to the role of stress in fatal accidents.

Deaths from traffic accidents around April 15 — traditionally the last day to file individual income taxes in the U.S. — rose 6 percent on average on each of the last 30 years of tax filing days compared with a day during the week prior and during the week later, according to research published in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Even allowing Americans to file their taxes electronically hasn't negated the crash trend, lead researcher Donald Redelmeier said. The findings suggest stress, lack of sleep, alcohol use and less tolerance to other drivers on tax deadline day may contribute to an increase in deaths on the road, Redelmeier said.

"Our research suggests that stressful deadlines can contribute to driver error that can contribute to fatal crashes."

"An increase of risk in this magnitude is about the same as what we observe on Super Bowl Sunday, a time notorious in the U.S. for drinking and driving," said Redelmeier, a professor of medicine at the University of Toronto in Canada, in an April 6 telephone interview.

The research showed that there were 226 fatal crashes for each of the 30 tax days and 213 fatal accidents for each of the 60 control days.

The study, which appears as a research letter in the medical journal, looked at tax deadline data from the Internal Revenue Service and fatal traffic accident data from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration from 1980 to 2009. The researchers then used a database to identify crashes that led to deaths. For every tax day, they also identified a day one week before and one week after as a comparison. BLOOMBERG

Top Web searches: Hobbies, entertainment

NEW YORK. Well over half of people globally use the Internet to search for information on entertainment and hobbies, according to a new survey.

The online poll of more than 19,000 adults worldwide in countries ranging from the United States, Argentina and Sweden to Japan, India and Russia showed that 57 percent of people said they visit websites for hobbies and other interests, 43 percent downloaded music and 34 percent searched for movies.

But usage in the 24 countries surveyed varied widely, with 72 percent of people in Turkey saying they visited sites for hobbies, while only 35 percent in Saudi Arabia did.

"While the Internet may be a place for business and commerce, it is also a place for play," said Keren Gottfried, research manager at Ipsos Global Public Affairs which conducted the poll for Reuters. REUTERS

Exams work to deter cheating

WASHINGTON. College admissions officers yesterday welcomed new rules aimed at deterring cheating on entrance exams, but continued to raise concerns about fraud, especially among foreign applicants.

The new regulations require students taking the SAT and ACT, the two most widely used college entrance exams in the United States, to provide a photo of themselves when they register.

Test proctors will be asked to check those photos against identification cards students present when they check in for the exams. REUTERS

THE WORD

Metro's Dorothy Robinson shares her take on the world of gossip @dorothyatmetro dorothy.robinson@metro.us

Readers respond: A little background on J.Lo's 'gift'

For Tuesday's Word, I wrote about Jennifer Lopez, 42, "gifting" beau/backup dancer Casper Smart, 25, with a custom white Dodge pickup truck for his birthday. Apparently, Lopez "knew that Casper really wanted a truck, and Casper was very excited about the generous gift," a source told People magazine. "Casper was so excited about his new truck that he decided to drive it to dinner."

In the column, I made a crack about how 1. That "source" sounded like a quote-giving robot and 2. How I was surprised that Lopez didn't buy him a Fiat considering all the shilling she does for them. This was not the joke to make! Check out my reader mail:

▶ "You may need to do some more digging. Chrysler/Dodge/Ram are owned in part by Fiat, which helped bailout Chrysler! That is why he got a Ram Truck from J. Lo and not a Ford F-150!"

▶ "Did you really not know that

PHOTOS: GETTY IMAGES

▶ That woman in the background is making the same face most of you made at Tuesday's column.

Fiat and Dodge are both owned by Chrysler LLC, when you wrote that J.Lo dreck?"

▶ "I feel obligated to point out that Fiat holds a considerable financial and developmental stake in Chrysler (who makes Dodge and Jeep vehicles). It wouldn't be too much of a stretch to assume she used an "employee discount" (if any money was spent at all) on that Dodge truck."

In my defense, I am only a recycler of celebrity gossip, not a hard-hitting journalist who knows the ins and outs of the car industry. However, thanks to my eagle-eyed readers, who do know such things, we all now know that this "news item" and "gift" was a total plant by Fiat and that truck was free in exchange for press. Duped!

So, really, do celebrities ever pay for anything? Or do they just have to save their cash for when they will inevitably need a high-priced divorce lawyer?

Lindsay Lohan strikes back

Lindsay Lohan isn't taking her latest legal attack lying down. A woman has accused the troubled actress of attacking her in a nightclub last week, and now Lohan wants police to investigate the accuser and arrest her for filing a false police report, according to TMZ. "If it's true that someone made false accusations against Ms. Lohan and reported those false claims to police, we will take appropriate action, which includes seeking the prosecution of that individual," Lohan's attorney tells the website.

Cruz loves motherhood

With a 1-year-old son at home, Penelope Cruz is starting to consider cutting back on her career for the sake of motherhood. "Maybe I'll make one movie a year, maybe two, but it's not going to be more than that because I have other priorities now," Cruz tells Harper's Bazaar. "I talk about him all day long, even to strangers in the street. It is my favorite subject! But, you know, this is my job." Cruz and husband Javier Bardem welcomed son Leonardo last year.

Is the Seal/Klum divorce getting ugly?

Seal is striking back at Heidi Klum, reportedly disputing her divorce petition, according to TMZ. The main issues he takes with her filing? Seal insists there are "community and quasi-community assets" that need to be divided up, while Klum claims a postnuptial agreement addresses that. In addition, Klum cites Jan. 19 as the official start of their separation, while Seal says the date hasn't been determined. Seal is also asking for joint physical custody of their children instead of Klum's proposed full physical custody. "Given that he's away a lot on tour, giving her primary physical custody is pretty much status quo," the source says. And both parties are reportedly asking to deny spousal support to the other.

Princess Di in a 'Bodyguard' remake?

Kevin Costner reveals there were plans for a sequel to "The Bodyguard" — with Princess Diana interested in starring as herself. "Diana and I had been talking about doing 'Bodyguard 2,'" Costner tells Anderson Cooper in an interview set to air next month. "I told her I would take care of her just the same way that I took care of Whitney [Houston]." Costner was eager to work with her. "She wanted me to write it for her. I said 'I'll tailor it for you if you're interested.' She goes, 'I am interested,'" Costner remembers, revealing that he received a draft of the script the day before Diana died.

10 REASONS TO HEAD TO THE MOVIES

2 'The Three Stooges' The directors responsible for "There's Something About Mary" offer a feature-length film update to the slapstick antics of Larry, Curly and Moe.

3 'Lockout' Guy Pearce stars as an unfairly accused spy given one chance at redemption. The mission? Rescue the U.S. president's daughter, who is being held in an outer-space prison that has been overrun by inmates.

4 'American Reunion' Seann William Scott, Alyson Hannigan and all those other actors who didn't have quite as most post-"American Pie" success are back for another installment.

5 'Titanic' 3-D For the 100th anniversary of the "Titanic," James Cameron releases a 3-D adaptation of his 1997 film.

6 'Wrath of the Titans' Sam Worthington and Liam Neeson get all mythological on you again in this sequel to "Clash of the Titans."

7 'Mirror Mirror' Tarsem Singh puts his surrealistic spin on the Snow White legend.

8 'The Hunger Games' Potter and the sparkly vampires had their time. Now, a postapocalyptic teenage huntress takes center stage as a volunteer in her country's annual Hunger Games.

9 '21 Jump Street' Based on the '80s TV series, this one stars Jonah Hill and Channing Tatum as two less-than-slick police officers who go undercover in an attempt to bust a high school drug ring.

10 'Jeff, Who Lives at Home' By now, you'd think we'd be sick of seeing Jason Segel play a shorts-wearing manchild who lives in his mom's basement. And yet, we're not at all.

Must-see

1 'The Cabin in the Woods' The critically praised and long-awaited Joss Whedon horror film that is said to be a "game-changer" finally hits theaters after years of delays. In the film, a bunch of teenagers go camping in said cabin in said woods.

TV watch list

'Community'

COMEDY. Britta tries to avoid her ex, who happens to show up in town at the same time as the traveling circus — because he's a circus performer. The first freak joke at his expense is a gimme.
8 p.m., NBC

'Grey's Anatomy'

DRAMA. Christina wants Owen to spill all of the gory details about his affair. As if "I cheated on you" wasn't already painful enough?

9 p.m., ABC

'Eagleheart'

COMEDY. Like a bizarro-world Raylan Givens, U.S. Marshal Chris Monsanto (Chris Elliott) solves the crimes other law enforcement officers can't (or won't) — like finding the kidnapped King of the Hobos and taking down a scat-singing mob boss.
Season premiere, 11:59 p.m., Cartoon Network

'Scandal'

Understanding Effie Trinket

- How actress Elizabeth Banks sees one of the most colorful, reviled characters of 'The Hunger Games'
- Why she wants you to stop watching 'Jersey Shore'

As Effie Trinket, the escort who preps the kids for "The Hunger Games," Elizabeth Banks is unrecognizable behind thick makeup and some ridiculous hair and hats. The plucky villainess talks to Metro about the film's similarities to reality TV, and her thoughts on "The Jersey Shore."

There's more to Effie than just being a pink-haired villain. As a career woman, she doesn't have the best gig.

No, District 12 is terrible. To me, Effie drank the Kool-Aid. She's onboard because she's in the 1 percent and she doesn't want to give that up. I think she thinks, "Revolution would be bad. People will die and I might lose my cupcakes." She's not one for change. She likes the status quo. I think she shows up in District 12 disgusted, thinks that it's dirty, wants to go home as fast as possible. I think of PR people and stylists I've worked with who go, "Well, I'll make the best of a bad situation," you know? And I think that's Effie. The main thing about Effie is she's super-selfish. It's all about her.

But she's also thrilled to show off the finer things in life to the kids.

I think Effie's main thing is she's ultimately a very optimistic and effervescent, theatrical person. That's why she has the job that she has, because she's spinning the job she has positively all the time. They're most likely going to die, and she's seen a lot of kids die. So in her mind it's like, "You won a lottery ticket. We're all going to die, but you're going to go out famous, with a big bang!" That's Effie's attitude about these kids. They're almost definitely going to die, she's pretty sure of it. But they just won a ticket to a great reality show.

The book and the movie do a great job of satirizing that aspect of our culture — reality TV. I don't know how much reality TV you watch ...

I don't mind the competition shows where people actually have a talent that they bring to bear on something, like "Project Runway," the chef ones, "Idol," "Voice," "The X Factor." But the message that we reward bad behavior — I personally don't believe that the 15 minutes of fame is worth your dignity. And I think there are a few people that come to them with something to offer the world, and that's a little bit more interesting. But I don't watch "Jersey Shore." I know people go, "I watch it because it's so crazy. I would never do that." But you're watching it and you're giving them ratings. You're rewarding them by watching it.

Viva Vena Cava!

Rumors have been circulating about the potential demise of Vena Cava. But despite missing the last two fashion show seasons, it turns out the indie women's-wear label by Lisa Mayock and Sophie Buhai isn't out for the count. The ladies have partnered with LF USA, the U.S. subsidiary of Hong Kong-based Li & Fung Limited, to grow their line. Expect to see a lot more from them soon.

So long, dark spots

Sometimes, a breakout means more than strategically hiding your face from the world for a few days. If you're stuck covering up the scars, it's time to put the concealer down. Two new, lightweight formulas help in the fight against discoloration, acne scarring, sunspots and uneven skin tone.

Steal

Kiehl's Clearly Corrective Dark Spot Solution, $50

This new serum is packed with Activated C, a never-before-used vitamin C derivative that breaks up overproduced melanin in the skin and prevents new clusters from forming. Rounding out the formula are botanical ingredients, including white birch extract to hydrate and peony extract, an antioxidant to protect against damage to the skin.

Splurge

La Prairie White Caviar Spot Treatment, $150

The good scientists at La Prairie have expanded their hyperpigmentation-fighting line, the all-impressive White Caviar Illuminating System, to include the handy White Caviar Spot Treatment. This little pen applicator targets and brightens specific areas, and its super formula of Swiss garden cress sprout extract fades existing spots and prevents future excess pigment. Vitamin C and licorice root extract block melanin from forming, and luxe golden caviar extract pumps up the antioxidant level of defense in the skin — all while firming.

Do you know best who's right for you?

When we read about Jennifer Lopez and her boyfriend Casper Smart, we can sense some disapproval. He is often referred to as her boy toy. The implication is that they are not on the same level. If this is the way the tabloids are handling their coupling, you have to wonder what her friends might be saying to her. Are they concerned this is a rebound relationship following her divorce from Marc Anthony? Whether you are in a relationship or just starting one, everyone is going to have an opinion — and typically it's that you are with the wrong person. So who do you trust: you or the people who think they know what's best for you? What should you say to those naysayers?

Shrink Wrap

DR. JANE GREER

► Only Casper and Jen know the dynamics of their relationship.

In JLo's case, there is no question that Casper hasn't achieved the professional success she has. But does it matter? The answer is: only if it bothers her. It is important to know when to go with what feels right for you. This might be a time in her life when she wants to lighten the mood a little, or maybe she likes the age difference. Or maybe he is much more her equal than any of us know from where we stand.

If you can be clear about why you are with someone, it will be much easier to deal with the negative remarks that might otherwise ignite your doubts. Once you have that clarity, you are equipped to handle people's criticisms about your choice of partner.

Silence the haters

Here is the strategy for what to do when they disparage your relationship. Begin by asking what their specific concerns are. Then, you can respond by saying you are aware of the possible problems and are dealing with them. Or, if it is something you have not considered, you can listen and agree to give it some thought. The goal is to convey to them why your partner is important in your life and thank them for their concern.

Voter fraud: Real, or just a fraud?

RE: "ACTUALLY, VOTER FRAUD ALIVE AND WELL": I agree very much with Mary Stone: Every voter should have ID. In fact, today every person that's legal should carry ID. I don't know what it is that people have to fear, if you are not doing anything wrong. On another note, if women would stop dressing like ladies, men would stop groping them. That's not sexy, and I know fashion.

BLANCA HERNANDEZ, NEW YORK CITY

Mary Stone forgot to tell us that there is no universally accepted definition of voter fraud. She forgot to tell us that voter fraud is widely believed to occur when an imposter physically shows up at the polls and attempts to vote, but this is extremely rare. Ms. Stone also forgot to tell us how difficult it is to get an ID card when you don't have a birth certificate. What else did she forget?

HERB WHREN, VIA E-MAIL

In wake of voter ID suits, how hard is it to get an ID? Is it too much to ask that you should feel the pain of dealing with a government you are voting for?

DAN HUBER, VIA E-MAIL

Mary Stone is a perfect example of someone who believes everything she reads on the Internet. Half of the cases she mentions have been completely debunked. Voter fraud is no more a factor in our elections than it has ever been. As a percentage, prosecutable cases of voter fraud exist 0.0007 percent of the time. This is well within the margin of error in every election. Voter ID laws remain what they have always been — a means to deny legal Americans the right to vote.

JD DUCAS, VIA E-MAIL

Don't trust Koch plant on Obamacare

RE: "OBAMACARE COULD WORSEN US DEBT?": It's a good thing you put that question mark in your headline for "Obamacare" because the answer is a resounding "No!" The ACA will save the government money by raising taxes on the investment income of the richest 2 percent and cutting out corporate welfare in excess Medicare Advantage payments. Blahous is a Koch-funded partisan at a Koch-funded propaganda mill. He used faulty assumptions and bad math to create a right-wing talking point. Sad to see no one checked before publishing this false attack.

KEVIN DOWD, VIA E-MAIL

I'm deeply disappointed Metro ran a story on the so-called study conducted by Charles Blahous. Blahous — who as a Medicare trustee tried to privatize the program — deliberately ignored both the savings and new revenue Obamacare will generate, which will ultimately reduce the deficit. It's a dishonest polemic, and I'm at a loss why Metro wasted space on it.

JOSEPH CONNELL, BROOKLYN

Speak truth to power, Metro!

RE: "US PENDULUM TILTS TOWARD SOCIALISM": I find the responses to Mr. McCloskey's letter quite disturbing. The New World Order attack on our country is verifiable in David Rockefeller's autobiography "Memoirs." Metro, keep up the good work of publishing letters despite the leftist complaints!

FRANK ST GEORGE, EAST ROCKAWAY

Celebrating Greek Easter like a native

- Break your fast with these various Greek Easter celebrations in the city
- A little lesson on the holiday

This Sunday marks Greek Easter, Greece's most important religious holiday. The holiday comes after a 40-day fast, in which Greeks mainly give up meat and oil — both major staples of their cuisine.

Food traditions

On the Tuesday before Greek Easter, women traditionally bake dessert biscuits called "koulourakia." On the Thursday before the holiday, they dye eggs red, to symbolize the blood of Christ, as well as make the traditional Easter bread known as "tsoureki." Then after church on Saturday, around midnight, people gather at each other's houses to feast on "magiritsa," a soup consisting of lamb intestines and vegetables.

So when they do break their fast, it's an all-day affair, with the main meal of the day being meat — usually lamb — slow-roasted on a spit.

Luckily, you can partake of this tradition here in New York. Thanks to a special permit, executive chef Maria Loi will be hosting an outdoor spit-fire lamb roast at her restaurant Loi from noon to 1 p.m. on Sunday; she will then serve the meat all day on a special prix fixe menu. The Upper West Side establishment will also serve salmon, chicken and traditional Easter treats like the magiritsa soup, tsoureki and red eggs.

"Easter is a day of giving," Loi says. As people traditionally gather with their friends and family, "you give love and you give food," she said.

► "Everybody loves this game," Loi says about Red Eggs. "It's easy and it makes people feel happy."

Red Eggs

Play the traditional game of egg-cracking. Hold the hard-boiled egg in your palm, as your opponent does the same. Hit the two eggs together, and whoever's does not crack will have a year of good luck.

Loi said to choose your egg wisely and to go for the shiniest egg offered.

Strasburg schools Mets

► Phenom gets upperhand on Santana in daytime duel ► Mets ace solid in second start of season though ► Team drops second straight to Nats

Class was in session for every pitcher in Citi Field yesterday.

Mets lefty Jon Niese sat front row, center, to learn from two of the best in the business of hurling baseballs past opposing hitters.

"You appreciate it," Niese said after watching Johan Santana and Stephen Strasburg engage in a pitching duel yesterday afternoon.

Santana took the loss in what would eventually be a 4-0 win for the Nationals at Citi Field. Strasburg earned his first win of the season.

"They're two great pitchers and it's fun to watch them both," Niese said. "You definitely learn from them. You learn how they attack hitters."

Attack is the appropriate verb as Santana and Strasburg took turns in an unspoken game of "Can you top this?" Santana struck out eight in five innings. His counterpart finished with nine punchouts in six innings.

"I like a lot what I see," Mets manager Terry Collins said of Santana. "I've been very happy with Johan. I like what we see."

CHRIS TROTMAN/GETTY IMAGES

► Strasburg struck out nine batters and lowered his ERA to 0.69 in his first two starts this season.

108

Strasburg threw 108 pitches — which is, believe it or not, the first time he's reached triple digits in his career.

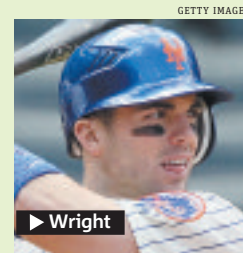

The Mets searched for words to adequately describe the 23-year-old Strasburg, whose upper-90s heat and mid-80s changeup caused them to flail away.

"He commands three pitches. He throws everything for strikes. He challenges [hitters]," Santana said of Strasburg. "He's going to have [a lot] of games ahead of him and I'm pretty sure he'll get better."

"He's good," added Jason Bay.

► Wright

Mets still wait and see on Wright

Mets third baseman David Wright was fitted for a splint on his fractured right pinky finger, but the news was most positive yesterday.

"He feels a lot better," Collins said. "He's getting another examination [today], and as I said last night, again I'm not a doctor ... but when they give us a final diagnosis of the whole thing, my gut tells me you'll see him Friday."

Collins admitted that even though Wright was having trouble gripping a bat, he wanted to play Tuesday. ● METRO

No Knocks?

The Jets and their head coach Rex Ryan might not be front and center for once.

Multiple reports Wednesday indicate that while owner Woody Johnson is interested in the Jets being on the HBO behind-the-scenes docudrama, Ryan and many players are not. HBO is reportedly now pursuing the Falcons as a possible alternative.

NHL happy with season

Among the byproducts of the 2004-05 lockout was the creation of a level playing field. The system has worked incredibly well. Only the Maple Leafs haven't qualified for the playoffs in the last seven seasons.

"We're coming off an incredibly exciting regular season. Attendance, ratings, all benchmarks of measuring how we're doing were strong and up," NHL Commissioner Gary Bettman said in a conference call Monday afternoon. "For some of our clubs, the playoffs literally began six or eight weeks ago." ● METRO/DG

Starting playoffs anew

► For two Rangers, playoffs offer a chance at redemption for disappointing season ► Boyle, Dubinsky confident end of season translates going forward

For Rangers Brian Boyle and Brandon Dubinsky, an early week practice provided a moment of glee in a season that has been marked by frustration for both.

Dubinsky controlled the puck on the wing as Boyle bore down on Henrik Lundqvist. A quick, accurate pass connected a split second before Boyle's snap shot beat Lundqvist high, popping the goaltender's water bottle from its perch atop the goal. Dubinsky's excited shriek filled the rink as he enveloped his centerman in a celebratory embrace.

When asked if he and his linemate enjoy scoring on Lundqvist, Boyle responded "Yeah, always."

Individually, the playoffs offer Boyle and Dubinsky the opportunity to redeem themselves from regular seasons that were not what either envisioned.

"Towards the end [of the season] if you look at where we scored, it was really close, around the net," Boyle said.

"That's kind of the way we're going to have to go in, especially for the playoffs."

DENIS GORMAN
sports@metro.us

Getting your mind right

Throughout the regular season, head coach John Tortorella had routinely warned of the danger of judging a player by statistics alone. For Boyle and Dubinsky, the lack of tangible offensive production has weighed heavy on their minds.

"It's no short to say it's been a nightmare of a year for me," Dubinsky said. "It's tough. You have expectations for yourself. When you don't meet those expectations it weighs and it continues to build."
